

Video: Why Musicians Should Weld

Maybe you're a little bit country. Maybe you're a little bit rock n'roll. Either way, if you're a musician, you should 100% consider a career in welding, and Rob Tessier wants to tell you why.

As Airgas' National Director of Advanced Fabrication Technologies, Tessier has spent over 30 years getting to know welding and the people who do it. So it's safe to say he has a strong idea of which interests and qualities lend themselves to success in the trade—and musicians fit the bill. So for a moment, swap out your guitar for a MIG gun and see what Tessier has to say.

Watch the video below to learn why musicians make great welders, and which genres are ideal soundtracks for common weld processes.
